

June 19, 2007

MortgageWire

“MortgageHub Unveils TCL Lite”

MortgageHub, a Norcross, Ga.-based provider of technology for the mortgage industry, has released TCL Lite, a version of its TCL (The Construction Lender) construction lending software that is tailored for smaller lenders. TCL Lite uses the same basic functions as the original system, but streamlines it to provide only those functions that smaller lenders require, and allows users to upgrade to the full TCL system with minimal effort, MortgageHub said. "TCL Lite is extremely easy to implement and use but still provides all the controls required for budgeting, cash management, and management information," said Dave Demster, president of MortgageHub's Mortgage Products Division. "Smaller lenders get a cost-effective, yet powerful solution that fits their needs today, while also providing the expandability to accommodate their growth in the future." The company can be found online at <http://www.mortgagehub.com>.